Etiquette & Rules for Multi-Use Trails

Travel at a safe speed
Self-monitor and control your speed. Slow down and use caution when approaching or overtaking other trail users and where there is limited vision. Faster users always yield to slower users.

Yield the right-of-way
Bicyclists and other wheeled users yield the right-of-way to pedestrians. All users yield the right-of-way to horses. When entering or crossing a trail at an uncontrolled point, yield to traffic on the intersecting trail.

Keep right and pass on left
Users, including pets, should stay as near to the right side as is safe, except when passing another user. Look ahead and behind to make sure the area is clear before passing. Give a clear and polite signal produced by voice, bell, or horn before passing.

Share the trail
If in a group, including your pets, use no more than half the trail. If you stop, move off the trail to allow others to pass freely. Do not block the trail.

Be considerate
Be respectful of other trail users regardless of their speed, level of skill, or mode. Travel in a consistent and predictable manner.

Keep trails clean
Do not leave litter on or near a trail. Practice "carry in, carry out."

Pet courtesy
Keep pets on a leash and under control. Clean up your pet's waste.

Respect wildlife and habitat
Stay on authorized trails and do not create any new ones. Do not disturb or harass wildlife. Do not damage or remove plant material.

Obey Traffic Regulations
Where trails intersect with streets, trail users must obey all traffic signs, signals, and laws.

No unauthorized motor vehicle use.

Share the Trail

Trail users should always plan ahead. Know your equipment, your ability, and the area in which you are traveling and prepare accordingly. Always wear a helmet when bicycling, drink plenty of water, keep your equipment in good repair, and carry gear for Colorado's changing weather conditions.

What is a sharrow?
*A shared lane marking painted on streets. Unlike a bike lane, sharrows indicate where bicycles are to position themselves in the shared travel lane.
